Dubinsky and Hochman
He Missed Both Wives
Murder in a Blanket
Salute Swastika, etc.

—By Arthur Brisbane

WHOMEVER ARRANGED for Grover Whalen, former New York city's police commissioner, to take charge of NRA activities in New York, gave him real work. For long hours yesterday, urban, bland, conciliatory talking to employers and strikers, in New York's garment war, that called out 60,000 employees. Mr. Whalen tried to persuade the men to go back to work, and to persuade employers to make it worth while for the men to return.

After hours of talk the job of persuasion was to start again at 1 o'clock last night.

Very interesting were the faces of the employers and employed in the garment industry, one of the greatest in the country. The employers, as a rule, looked tired. Some of them have money, and that makes you tired in these days, watching it. Striking workers have no money, most of them, but they have terrific energy and use it.

It was a delight to watch and hear David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies' Garment Workers, as he took the floor, beginning always mildly, ending otherwise with "We don't want to wait to eat pie in the sky." Or:

"It takes five weeks to make a man's coat in the garment industry. It will take longer than that to clear this thing up in Washington. And after we finish there they will have to visit the Washington. We will have to tell things."

Julius Hochman, head of another garment union, with a head bigger than that of the late Route Coach, was a powerful and powerful eyes that might have made him a genius as the Shakespeare of the "written up" man. If it ever be, look out.

Ten minutes listening to the employers and the talkers for 60,000 strikers make you realize that the NRA eagle will add significantly to the strength of organized labor.

You may, with government pressure, force the head of a great industry. But you can't coerce the millions that work for the great industries, if they choose to strike.

It is a pity that there is not room to describe Mr. Dubinsky and Mr. Hochman, the latter at discreet intervals whispering in Mr. Dubinsky:

"A little easy."

Such terrific energy is in Mr. Dubinsky, so much menace in his voice, with a powerful foreign accent, that if you are a little and a little easy, looking at him and listening to him for five minutes is violent exercise.

His spine is bent at the top from years of working over his head, but he is a little easy, that other wear. But he rises, and he is a little easy, looking at him for five minutes is violent exercise.

John Sabo, shoemaker, had two wives and missed them. One died seven years ago and the other four years ago. He buried them side by side, and when 45 years old, he missed them so much, he decided to let his body be dropped into the ground, and let his body be dropped into the ground, and let his body be dropped into the ground.

That graveyard does not accept suicides.

He is with them now, perhaps, or perhaps with only one, depending on the rule concerning those that have two or more wives in the better land. Perhaps the number does not matter, where they are just spirit.

How would Solomon manage?

A new kind of gang murder in New York. A truck driver was killed wrapped in a brown blanket, he struggled showed that he was not dead. Nothing like that since a caliph, told by Mexico Polo, that he was boring chieftain, whom he had conquered in an Oriental tug and had him trampled to death by horses, thus "avoiding bloodshed."

You are safe in Germany if you are a German. You are along with a Swastika, on the sort of an institution pinwheel, provided you raise a right arm and give the best imitation you can of a Nazi salute.

Dr. Daniel Mulvihill of Brooklyn, N. Y., studying under Dr. Sauerbruch in Berlin, forgot about saluting the Swastika flag, and a parade marcher in uniform hit him on the side of the head violently to teach proper manners and saluting deities.

That is new, since Kessler's hat.

Mr. Medalla, United States prosecuting officer, says he can name four or six important political leaders that work under

Letter Clue in Nurse Slaying

HAVERHILL WOMAN IS SOUGHT
Wrote Note Inviting Mrs. Palmer to Visit There

By ARTHUR J. QUINN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Exeter, N. H., Aug. 18.—Finding of a letter inviting Mrs. Louise Botelle Palmer, slain nurse, to Haverhill a short time before her disappearance, paved the way to a solution of the mystery of her murder, police announced today.

It was also definitely established that the bag in which her dismembered body was found was a cleaner's garment bag used for cleaning.

This provided a valuable clue to the actual scene of the murder, if the cleaner can be found, something which the authorities believe is but a matter of a few hours' investigation.

Investigators believe the medical and nursing professions are linked with the crime.

SURGICAL SKILL SHOWN
There is every indication that the dismembering of the body was done by someone with surgical skill.

Mrs. Palmer had a quarrel with another nurse at one of her gay parties, it was disclosed. Jealousy may have figured in the crime.

Dissection of the body was so skillful that there was no blood in the bag used in disposing of the body. It is believed she can throw on the mystery.

Mrs. Palmer had moved since three weeks before her disappearance on July 16, but the authorities expect she will come forward to supply information as soon as she learns they desire her assistance.

Haverhill is definitely believed to be the locale of the murder.

GARMENT BAG CLUE
Local cleaners identified the bag as of the type used in returning women's coats or dresses. It was too long for a man's garment bag, they say. However, it was not theirs. It is believed to have been used by a cleaner in the Haverhill district.

Law Takes 4 Lives; Crime Grows
Quartet Walks 'Last Mile' as Nation Bottles New Wave

The law is sometimes stupid, and roguish snarl; but the law is inexorable, and roguish snarl, cringe—and die.

Four of them walked "the last mile" between yesterday's sunset and today's dawn, sitting down to death in the electric chair for the murders they had done. One was a Negro, R. T. Bennett. The State of Texas electrocuted him for murdering a Dallas woman—strangling her to death with a silk stocking.

Sing Sing saw the others die. The three men were executed at six-minute intervals. Two died for murder committed during a New York City holdup. The third, Stephen Withersell, had killed his father, robbed him and then gone on a honeymoon.

It was Withersell who just before starting the march to the death chair—the last agonizing mile—whined:

"I don't rate the deal I'm getting."

Law Snaps Tight on Other Criminal
The law, like the jaws of a steel trap, was snapping shut, too, on another hunted man elsewhere. An Arkansas posse snared Gene Johnson, a holdup man, and shot him dead when he offered fight. He was wanted for murdering a Kansas police officer. They say he was one of Underhill's men—Wilbur Underhill, dead gunman of the Southwest.

Johnson's wife, wanted in connection with a Kansas bank robbery, was wounded and captured; but Leroy Wright, another of the bad men whose guns have blazed death and terror in Kansas, escaped. Bloodhounds hunt, and they roam to the ground of the west.

FORD WARNED ON CODE, BY JOHNSON
Will Apply to All in Auto Industry, Says Administration

Washington, Aug. 18.—Demand for a 30-hour average week and a 60-cent-an-hour minimum wage, even for apprentices in production, was made yesterday by William Green, president of the A. F. of L., at the hearing on the automobile industry code.

The automobile manufacturers, in their revised code, set the average work week at 40 hours with 40-hour minimums at all hours in the year, and proposed minimum wage rates of 40 to 45 cents an hour.

From these wage scales they exempted apprentices and all employees engaged in the preparation, care and maintenance of plants, machinery and facilities of aid for production.

Green also demanded that all overtime work beyond 30 hours in any one week should be paid for at one and one-half times the basic rate, even in employment hour increases occasioned by emergencies and seasonal demand.

Gen. Hugh R. Johnson, NRA administrator, opened today's hearing with a statement apparently directed at Henry Ford that no exception would be made whether the manufacturer or consumer on the code are large or small.

Without mentioning Ford by name, but with his meaning pointed out, he declared that he intended to subscribe to the code presented by others of the industry, Johnson said.

"It is a matter of regret that the industry as represented here is not making 100 per cent of automobile manufacturers, because, certain it is, that in the distribution of the Blue Eagle, an exception can be made in favor of any manufacturer whether his output be great or small."

"We shall execute this law as we find it, without fear and without favor."

SON HITS DAD'S STRIKE QUELLED COURTROOM IN BRAINTREE

The chivalry of a 17-year-old son toward his mother overrode those in Milton court today, when youth knocked his own father "cold" as Judge Ethelbridge Dwyer was waiting to hear a case involving the both parents.

A few minutes later the youth repeated the treatment to the courtroom.

Mrs. Dwyer, president, appeared at a factory window and told the assembled workers that those who wished might return at any time.

The plant has been closed since a strike Tuesday, appeared at their posts the first two days and all three, refusing to work.

Police finally persuaded the men and women to return to work. In the meantime, the father and his wife agreed to have the case postponed to Aug. 21. Outside the courtroom the three met again. The father went down again, but he was quickly on his feet. He drew a knife, police said, whereupon the son took to his heels.

After being revived, the father and his wife agreed to have the case postponed to Aug. 21. Outside the courtroom the three met again. The father went down again, but he was quickly on his feet. He drew a knife, police said, whereupon the son took to his heels.

Not squads were speeded to the plant of the Braintree Roof & Shing Co. in Braintree this morning when 400 striking workers resorted to force to keep some of their number from returning to work.

The disturbance began after Samuel Shapiro, president, appeared at a factory window and told the assembled workers that those who wished might return at any time.

Jordan Marsh and Hovey Raise Wages Above Code

The Jordan Marsh Company and the C. F. Hovey Company today announced they had increased the minimum wage in excess of the minimum wage increase are to be granted to those who are at present employed in the lower wage groups, whose pay is now above the minimum.

The management also announced that an actual increase in pay over that previously received would be given every employee due to the elimination of the day-out-of-month plan, the increase being effective regardless of the reduced hours. Today, however, the management announces an actual increase

U. S. WATCHES DESPERED MURSCHEL KIDNAPING
Machine-Gunners Placed Our Bates Is Searched

BULLETIN

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 18 (INS)—Harvey Bailey, notorious gangster held in jail in Dallas in connection with several crimes, was at large at the time the small son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was kidnapped and murdered, a check of his record revealed today after it was reported unofficially that federal investigators were checking the possibility that he may have been connected with the famous case.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 18 (AP)—The kidnapping and murder of the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh in 1932, and an attempt to escape jail today had become entwined in the roundup of a wide-spreading kidnap and robber gang whose reputed leader, Harvey Bailey, is in jail here under machine-gun heavy guard.

Federal operatives neither confirmed nor denied reports that two of its agents had been assigned "for life" if necessary to determine if Bailey or Albert L. Bates, a Confederate held prisoner in Denver, had any connection with the abduction and death of the fier's son.

Machine Gun Guard
The police guard over Bates was increased to night machine gunners after Chief of Police Albert J. Clark discovered three bars of his record of every prisoner in the jail to determine if any confederates of Bates had secured themselves in the arrested in order to aid him in a jailbreak, but after the investigation the chief said no suspicious characters were found. Prompted by rumors that an attempt might be made to liberate Bates, Dallas officers were taking unusual precautions to safeguard him. Extra guards were on duty at the jail and officers watched closely for any suspicious movements from any of the prisoners.

Fred Rike, in charge of the local bureau of the Department of Justice, said today that a "general" search of the records of the second of Bates.

He stated directly if he was working Continued on Page 11, Column 1

STOCK CRASH OF JEWS CHECKMATES NAZI 'TORTURE'

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, Aug. 17 (INS)—A visitor to Berlin saunters down the Kurfürstendamm, sees groups of Jews sitting in the open air cafe sipping coffee peacefully, and then wonders if the stories of the ill treatment of Jews for months ago were not perhaps exaggerated.

The visitor walks into the Jewish quarter, sees the great Jewish-owned department store, and sees crowds of Jews walking peacefully. He sees other similar incidents which make him wonder.

The visitor does not know that he is seeing the expectations to the rule, that thousands of Jews are at present being subjected to the subtle torture of economic deprivation. The visitor does not know the Jews who sit quietly sipping coffee do so because their jobs are gone, their shops sold or taken from them, and there is nothing left for them to do but sit quietly and sip coffee.

SUFFER IN SILENCE
Through the ages Jews have had the capacity to suffer in silence and today thousands of them are suffering loss of everything but self-respect in the Germany which has turned its back on them. They are no longer physically mistreated, for Hitler has given strict orders against that, but the punishment they are getting is far greater than any physical beating.

Their world has come to an end, but the casual visitor would never know it by talking to them. Only under the surface of the tranquil and rather commonplace life of Berlin can one find the answer to the question: "What are the Jews doing?" The answer comes from tortured souls: "Nothing."

NEW RENTS ARE LOW
One sees hundreds of "for rent" signs on the windows of apartments and perhaps if one is detailist at the low price of the apartments beautifully furnished flat he will ask why it is going so cheaply and why anyone would leave a well-furnished flat. He will be told (as this writer was) the occupants of the apartment was a Jewish professor who had to leave in a hurry.

He will be told other stories, if he gains the confidence of the Jewish woman who lives in the apartment, that she will tell him the story of the Jewish professor who had to leave in a hurry. These stories will force upon him a feeling of admiration for the courage and fortitude of the victims of the Nazi revolution, individuals among the Nazis who suddenly express their admiration for the Jews who have stood this persecution with a comparative calmness and resignation.

BITTER PICTURES PEELED
Many of the younger Nazis are done to door selling pictures of Hitler and Nazi emblems. Recently two of them rang the bell of a Jewish apartment. They went to the door. When they displayed their pictures, she flung indignantly upon them and said:

"I am Jewish. Would you dare to take money from a Jew after the way you have treated us?" The two embarrassed Nazis recoiled, bowed politely, murmured a respectful "Auf Wiedersehen" and departed.

Equal Pay Is Plea of Women

Washington, Aug. 18 — On the eve of the thirtieth anniversary of women suffrage, a high official of the National Woman's Party contended in a statement that her sex should be placed on an equality with men on wage scales.

"In these 15 years, little by little, women have been securing a greater measure of economic equality," said Anita Pollitzer, vice chairman of the organization.

"But in the last few weeks these gains have been seriously threatened by the adoption of at least a dozen temporary codes which establish lower minimum wages for women than for men." She quoted Gen. Johnson, industrial administrator, as saying that "where women do men's work they should get equal pay."

TWO BURNED AS GAS RATE NOT RAISED BY NRA GAS EXPLODES

Lowell, Aug. 15.—Two persons were burned, not seriously, today by a fire and explosion caused by a lighted match igniting gasoline fumes at the French-American Hotel, 10, Merrimack st.

Mildred Carey, 20, was cleaning her dress with gasoline. Andrew Lelour, 36, another tenant, was talking to her. Lelour lighted a match and the fire and explosion resulted.

The explosion blew her into the hall and ignited her clothing. Lelour's clothing also caught fire.

Mrs. Carey rushed into the suite of Mrs. J. L. Poirer, who wrapped her in a sheet and extinguished the flames.

Both victims were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Upham Commands Fleet

Branford, Aug. 15 (INS).—Admiral Frank B. Upham today assumed command of the United States Atlantic fleet. He replaced Admiral Montgomery Taylor, who will retire.

Washington, Aug. 15 (INS).—The National Recovery administration today refused to take any responsibility for demands for increased gas and electric rates which may result from acceptance of utility codes.

Robert T. Higgins, chairman of the Connecticut Public Utilities Commission, said: "It is up to the public utilities commissions of the various states to consider rate increase applications by gas and electric companies operating under the NRA code." Cates said, "If the rates applied for seem excessive the state commissions can deny the applications."

"We had no trouble on the side of wages, for the large majority of companies paid well beyond the minimums set in the code."

"But on the problem of hours we found that a number of employers had to be added to the payroll of the industry. This, naturally, will increase the production costs."

Shoe Men Agree on Code Taking in All Lines

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP).—An agreement reported to be satisfactory to all groups in the shoe industry was taken up by the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association today, to be drafted into a new code for the approval of the National Recovery Administration.

The agreement, an associate of the national association said, provided for the representation of the felloe slippers and slitch down method groups as well as the group of southwestern manufacturers who claimed they were misrepresented under the original plan.

It was reached last night at a long conference lasting until early this morning.

The clause in the original code providing for continuation of present labor contracts was understood to have been ordered stricken out by Deputy Administrator Williams at yesterday's conference because it violated the provision of the National Recovery Act which forbade the recognition of company or specific unions.

That clause had been protested by Edward J. Demore of Brockton, representing the Brotherhood of Shoe and Allied Craftsmen, an insurgent union. John J. Mara of the Boot and Shoe Workers Union, which has contracts with manufacturers in that area, said he understood the clause would be reopened, whether or not the clause was inserted in the code.

John E. Solon of Boston, president of the Shoe Workers Protective Union, announced at yesterday's conference with the draft of a code which he said he would not introduce until the public hearing. It provided a maximum 30-hour week and minimum wages of $3.10 per week for unskilled employees, $3.00 for highly skilled employees.

RAILROAD CUTS ARABS WARNED IN MEN LOOM ON MVSSACRE

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—The general manager of the Eastern railroad cut today for discussion of problems which have a particular bearing on Eastern territory as a whole.

Joseph E. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation, has held that the general committee—set up by the Eastern, Western and Southern carriers independent of their coordinating committees—had "the earmarks of a device to avoid the provisions of Section 7a of the Emergency Railroad Act."

This section deals with labor and provides that neither the federal coordinating committee nor any action with will have the effect of reducing employment on the railroads before the May level.

However, the general committee, in the opinion of executives here, can achieve economies by reducing the number of workers without running counter to the law.

Baghdad, Iraq, Aug. 15 (AP).—The killing of more than 400 Assyrian Christians in conflict with Kurds and Iraq forces in Northern Iraq, has displaced an international situation in which Great Britain, as former mandatory power over Iraq, has been moved to take a hand.

Bodies of 310 were found at Sin-el village and 200 were discovered nearby following Kurdish raids.

The British government offered an asylum in Cyprus to Assyrian leaders, Mar Shimun, who with his father and brother was deported today by the Iraq government. It was charged he was responsible for the conflict.

Sir Francis Humphreys, British envoy, is hurrying back to his post and diplomatic quarters are seeking to straighten out the situation.

DOHERTY NAMED STATE LEGION COMMANDER

o Holyoke, Aug. 18. Daniel J. Doherty of Woburn, vice-commander of the State Department of the American Legion, today was unopposed as the convention's choice for state commander.

Doherty has been filling the office during the illness of Commander Hene. Rose, until he died, did not seek re-election on account of his health.

Among the special guests who occupied seats on the platform today were Col. William L. Blais of Boston, regional director of the Veterans' Bureau; Congressman Allen T. Readway of Stockbridge; national Vice-Commander John J. Majors, of Portland, Me.; and William O'Brien, chief of the telephone division of the State Department of Public Utilities.

JAMES ROOSEVELT SPEAKER

James Roosevelt, son of the President, is expected to address the Legion later in the day. It was said he would carry a message from the White House to the Legionnaires, not only of Massachusetts but of the entire country as well.

Before the session opened, delegates from Brockton and Lowell delivered things with their vice-presidents. Although Congresswoman Edith Norton Rodgers addressed the convention and made a spirited plea for Lowell as next year's meeting place, it is generally believed the Brockton boys have carried enough votes to assure that city being selected.

The second day got under way today with a military memorial mass in Holy Cross Church in commemoration of the Legion's dead.

Not only was the event outstanding in impressiveness, but it is said to be the first ever held in connection with a Legion convention.

MOTHERS ATTEND IN BODY

The large edifice was well filled for the ceremony and a dramatic touch was added when a group of nearly a score of Gold Star mothers of this city and vicinity marched to the service in a body.

Rev. Robert White of the Catholic University in Washington, former state chaplain of the Legion, was celebrant. He was assisted by Rev. Charles Frederick of Our Lady of Sorrows Monastery in West Springfield, and Rev. Joseph Butin of Precious Blood Church in this city, as solo deacon. Fr. Butin is chaplain of Holyoke Post. Rev. Leo Rock delivered the sermon. Several men-signors were seated in the sanctuary. Flags of the Legion and the national emblem, placed near the altar added a colorful touch.

Following the Memorial mass

WHAT A SCORE THEY MADE!

Ann McCuskey, daughter of Milton's water commissioner, who mistook a neighbor for a kidnaper, and "Toots," the pet, who routed the man near their Blue Hill Parkway home last night.

PET DOG STARTS KIDNAP SCARE

For a few exciting hours, Milton had a kidnapping scare over night, but the excitement was dispelled today when a neighbor of William J. McCuskey, water commissioner of Milton, gave information that made the kidnap story a different yarn entirely.

As told by little Ann McCuskey, 6-year-old daughter of the water commissioner, a man with a sack in hand approached her on the lawn of her home at 400 Blue Hill place, Milton, but when she screamed, her dog "Toots" raced to the rescue.

The would-be "kidnaper," she said, fled to a car standing before the house, leaped on the running board and was driven away by a second man at the wheel. Two girls were in the back seat, Ann said, and they appeared to be tied up and were frightened expressions.

Milton police flashed the report over the teletype and a hunt for the "kidnaper" followed—until John Carr, 22 and his brother, Thomas, 19, both of 22 Blue Hill Parkway, in the rear of the McCuskey home, read the story today.

Thomas then proceeded to Milton police and informed them that he was the supposed "kidnaper."

The car was stopped in front of the McCuskey home and Thomas, with his foot on the car's arm, started to make a short cut through the McCuskey yard to his own home in the rear.

When the girl screamed and the dog went after him, he had an thought but to escape, he said, and after he jumped on the running board his brother drove around the block to the Carr home.

No extravagant claims could make the new improved Jenney HY-POWER a better gasoline than it actually is. The improvement in its anti-knock quality as well as in starting, power and mileage is entirely the result of improved refining processes.

Our tests show that in the new improved Jenney HY-POWER we are offering you a product that would have sold a year or two ago as a premium gasoline at a premium price. Yet we are able to sell it today as our regular gasoline at the regular price.

There's only one way you can be sure that the new improved Jenney HY-POWER offers you more for your gasoline dollar. Drive in at any Jenney Station or dealers. Have your tank filled—see for yourself if the new improved Jenney HY-POWER isn't more than a match for any other gasoline on the road at its price.

- ★ JENNEY AERO . . . premium quality, extra quick starting, extra-power and greater economy.
- ★ JENNEY ETHYL . . . a combination of the new improved Jenney HY-POWER and Ethyl Fluid.
- ★ JENNEY AUTO-OIL . . . a highly refined and filtered gasoline oil.

NORMAN VISIT MYSTERY TO ROOSEVELT

Washington, Aug. 18.—President Roosevelt knows nothing of the visit of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, to this country, the White House stated.

Administration officials meanwhile scouted reports that Norman is negotiating with Treasury officials on the country's currency policy, and that the President is contemplating a big exchange fund for operations in world currency markets.

The Treasury Department declined to comment on the reports. It was reliably said President Roosevelt is no more friendly to stabilization of the dollar in terms of pounds or francs than he was several months ago when his adamant refusal to do so wrecked the London economic conference.

At that time the administration made it clear no stabilization will be undertaken by this country until the domestic economic situation has completely recovered and until commodity price levels had reached the 1926-1928 level.

While the recovery of prices has definitely started, it was pointed out, the desired level by no means has been reached.

STATE AID FOR SCHOOLS URGED

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—The individual states must aid the local public schools at once, or education in this country stands in grave danger of collapse, it is stated in a report adopted by the National Conference on the Financing of Education, at Columbia University.

The report was presented to the conference by Dr. Alfred D. Simpson, assistant commissioner of finance, New York State.

Associated on the committee with Dr. Simpson were Dr. Paul R. Merz, director of the school of education, Teachers College, Columbia University; Commissioner of Education, Massachusetts; and H. D. Shewalter, Washington State superintendent of public instruction.

Raymond Moley, a temporary in the Justice Department, had young Miller still holds forth in Moley's state department office.

A party gentleman, walking in recently, asked to see Mr. Miller.

"The beautiful blonde secretary, with a slight hint of boredom, asked the visitor who he was."

"Mr. Arthur Miller, the Senator," was the reply.

"Have a seat," she invited. "He's busy, but I'll see if he'll be able to see you."

The gentleman, startled, spun on his heel and strode out.

Weather to Order

Many are the wisecracks that have been perpetrated and worn out about the changeability of Washington weather, but grizzly old Cincinnatus, who presides over the Navy, wins the prize.

When the story goes, the visitor is equipped with a Swanson about the climate, tagging his waders, the secretary's eyes betrayed a little twinkle.

"So you don't like our weather, huh? Well, wait a minute—"

MINERS QUIT TO JOIN OTHERS IN JOBS MARCH

Tamaqua, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP)—Demanding "we all work or nobody works," Anthracite miners estimated by state police to number between 3,000 and 5,000 converged today on the Alliance mine at Tamaqua. Bands recruited its 600 miners to their cause and set out to close the Cranberry mine at West Hazleton. A score of state troopers stood by with riot sticks but there was no disorders at the closing of the Alliance mine. Both the colliery at Tamaqua-Williams, eight miles north-west of Tamaqua, and that at West Hazleton are operated by the Lehigh Navigation Co.

Police estimated 700 automobiles in the procession, led by bugles and drummers, winding its way northward to the Cranberry mine, where about 500 men are working. Officials of the coal company told a delegation of miners yesterday it would be impossible to stagger employment as they wished. The men demanded that work be spread between various collieries, some of which have been closed since the turn of the decade, but the company replied apologetically in oral orders would not permit the use of some mines. The day before Gov. Pinchot had been warned by union officials that 6,000 men would become uncontrollable if they were not given work soon.

RUM BOAT SUNK AFTER BATTLE

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 18 (AP)—Damaged by shell fire from a Coast Guard cutter, a 50-foot boat alleged rumrunner, exploded and sank in Delaware Bay early today. Three men aboard the craft leaped into the water and were picked up by the cutter. They were taken to Camden, N. J., and placed in jail. Guardsmen said the explosion occurred after a 10-minute chase in the darkness at full speed headed for the Delaware shore. While sheeling wheeled around the boat its crew hurled cases overhead a shot from the cutter's gun finally found a vital spot in the boat. There was an explosion the boat rocked and went down.

23 in Court, But Joke's on Officer

Twenty-three auto drivers, halted for failing to stop at a four-way intersection, were in Newton district court today. But the joke was on Patrolman Frank Munroe who ordered them into court. Munroe had to come from his vacation to prosecute. He had originally planned to take action earlier, before these cases came up, but swapped dates with another officer, forgetting all about this engagement. Five of the defendants were fined $5, two were dismissed and all the rest were placed on file against them.

POLICE NET FOR BANDIT FLUNG IN 3 STATES

Springtown, Ark., Aug. 18 (AP) — A net to catch Leroy Wright

who escaped a machine gun of fensive in which officers killed Gene Johnson reported confederate of the Wilbur Underhill gang of escaped Kansas prison inmates, and wounded his wife, was flung over three states today.

The hunt was concentrated in wild country north of Sulphur Springs where bloodhounds lost the trail. It was believed Wright possibly wounded, might have taken to an automobile. Authorities in Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma were notified.

Twenty officers from the three states at the Johnson farm home near here yesterday opened fire when Johnson, his wife and Wright, drove up in an automobile and tried to flee when ordered to surrender.

The two men fell and Mrs. Johnson was wounded in the arm. In the confusion, Wright shot her wounded husband dropped across her, shielding her from the hail of machine gun, rifle and pistol bullets. Wright was wounded in the head.

Johnson died of a wound in his head. His wife was hospitalized at Harrisonville. Arns were found in the Johnson home yesterday. Wright denied, it was reported the Underhill gang used it as a hangout.

Officers said Johnson was wanted with Wright and three other men, in the slaying of a policeman at a filling station robbery at McPherson, Kan. Wright was also wanted for a killing in Ohio. Authorities said Mrs. Johnson was wanted in connection with a bank robbery in Kansas.

LINDY CASE CLUE IN ARRESTS

ing on a possible theory that Bailey had been implicated in the kidnaping of the son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Blake said "our investigation has not reached that point here."

He said he had not checked to determine if Bailey was in prison at that time "although that would be a matter easily verified."

Railey, charged with the abduction of Charles P. Truesell, Oklahoma oil millionaire, also has been named by the Department of Justice as the operator of a machine gun which mowed down four officers and their platoon at Francis Nash, at Kansas City, June 17, in an attempt to free Lindbergh.

Four Others Held, Seek $50,000 Bond
Speedy prosecution of Bailey and four other suspects held in jail here for the kidnaping of the oil operator was anticipated as a result of Special Assistant Attorney General Leslie Salter being sent to Oklahoma City to press the government's case against him. Salter left Chicago by plane last night.

The four under arrest with Bailey were R. R. Shannon, at whose isolated farm in Wise County, Bailey was arrested last Saturday. Shannon's wife, their son Arnon, and Arnon's wife. The Shannons were anxious to make the $50,000 bond set for each, but it was more than they could raise. Bailey's bond was set at $100,000.

"JOHN...Listen to ME!..."

DO YOU THINK PRICES REALLY ARE GOING UP?

because if you do, we'd better hold a family conference right now"

JOHN: I'm sure they will. The financial pages are full of statements about price increases of wheat, cotton, leather, wool and metals and a lot of other basic products. Wages seem to be going up in several industries, too—so, of course, it's only natural that all of these extra costs will have to be added to the things we buy. At any rate, retail prices always have gone up in some proportion to such costs.

MARION: You know, John, that we'll be needing quite a lot of things pretty soon for the children and the house. I thought that, since there is a chance that prices will go higher, we'd better stock up now and be that much ahead later on.

JOHN: Well, of course it's up to you, but some prices have already gone up.

MARION: Yes, I know, and judging by the newspaper advertisements, seems almost certain that prices won't go any lower. I don't know how much we might save if we bought that new rug and drapes for the living room at present prices—or winter outfits for the children and a few of the other things we'll need this Fall. But I do feel that we'll never get such bargains for a long time to come.

JOHN: Now that you've put it that way, I'm all for it. The National Recovery Act is bound to create fair wages and hours. I believe all that and the processing tax on certain goods are sure to force prices up. Of course, there is always a chance that those predictions may be wrong, but I agree with you that we'd better not overlook today's opportunities.

America's "NEW DEAL" is under way. New business codes—with fair wages and hours—must affect retail prices. The FACTS should be considered

WE BELIEVE that conversations like the above are going on in the homes of many of our readers. Because of the widespread interest in this subject, the Boston American management feels it a duty to call attention to facts which seem to indicate higher prices eventually.

We cannot directly urge our readers to go out tomorrow and buy everything they need for the next three or four months. We do not know exactly—nor does anyone else—just when all retail prices will go up. Some prices have already advanced and merchants anticipate price increases on many classes of goods in the near future—the trend in many lines seems to be upward.

We believe that our readers will wish to consider the facts and make their own decisions. There will be some, who, like "John and Marion" in the conversation, will want to be on the safe side and buy now the things they will need for the family and the home later on. There will be others who will await further developments and buy as their needs arise. These, of course, will realize that price increases are justified by conditions and will cheerfully pay them—knowing that they are necessary for our business recovery. Higher costs of raw materials and higher wages must mean higher prices eventually.

Marathon Canoeists Off Again

Such a little thing as an a water trip from Burlington, Vt. to Boston is only a bit of a record for Charles L. Peir, Knapp, Jr. of West Roxbury, and Harold F. Purman, Jr. of Hyde Park, as they started from Boston today on a canoe trip to New York, via the ocean.

On yesterday the two left Knapp the son of a West Roxbury physician, and a Dartmouth student, arrived at M. T. T. house on the Charles River after paddling all the way from Burlington, Vt. to Boston.

Knapp, 22, was old but four pounds on the trip from Burlington, Vt. to Boston. He is a n. dropped downstream, passed through the Charles River locks, comparatively unharmed, and headed across the harbor, through the choppy water on the first day of their voyage in Gotham.

Hoboes Snub Their Numerous 'Kings'

Chicago, Aug. 13 (AP)—The hoboes disclosed that "kings" of the hoboes were about as numerous as "kings" of the hoboes. A one-legged man in the eastern provinces with New York as capital we have his carious misdeeds, Dan O'Brien, at Cincinnati King, Jeff Davis, and in Chicago King Macbeth with a few others running loose in various other regions. But a real hobo knows no king.

This is Life

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Dean Carl W. Ackerman of Columbia, and as such knows not only the true state of newspaper work but its philosophy and what should be its idealism. He has just returned from a swing around the country, along up public opinion, and he has come to some conclusions.

He seems to believe, to be precise, that the American press has been advocating of late in its editorial upholding the present administration's recovery plan. It has been loyal, enthusiastic in its support of the administration. It has gone the whole way in its support.

That in all it should be, but Dean Ackerman believes that it has deliberately neglected the other function of journalism, that of criticism, of presenting both sides of a case, of the collecting of opinion, even if it be adverse to the powers that be, not merely for the good of the country at large, but, particularly, for the good of the government—better, the administration—better.

Likewise every other business, the newspaper business will be governed by a code. This code will have to do with hours of work, the salaries of wages and the like. Dean Ackerman believes that a newspaper code should go deeper than the mere mentalities of journalism. He believes that the newspaper code should contain also a guarantee, on the part of this administration, of the constitutional right of the freedom of the press.

It is not difficult to see what it is in Dean Ackerman's mind. There is a good deal of talk about boycotts. There is talk of making us, not merely of public opinion, but live up to the NRA. But, as well there is perhaps too much talk about the boycott of force in this complicated business. The head of the NRA is a soldier and soldiers are always been at home when conducting business. Dean Ackerman obviously asks that if the American press were to begin seriously to criticize the NRA, the tendency would be to put the screws on offending newspapers. Therefore, he asks that the administration publicly avow its faith in the constitutional guarantee of the freedom of the press. "This is essential, not because the press needs this recognition, but because the government needs it."

He goes on at some length in his statement of opinion:

"From New York to Virginia and west of Illinois, I found an unhealthy state of mind. There was considerable private criticism of General Johnson and the National Recovery Administration. This criticism is of present surprise because of the surges of a President, who is supported by the people, and an administration in him, and an administration of the NRA, who is supported because of the success of him."

"He points out, with shrewd and psychology, that when people are reading they are more likely to be critical than when they are listening. He believes that radio address, deliberately broadcast, are a very real means for informing the public and making them think."

"The public has not yet learned to be as critical or thoughtful when listening to the radio as when it reads an address or an article. In economic matters, particularly the newspapers have been too long for arriving up the emotions as much as they have been for discussing the intellect. Another reason for the present situation is high pressure publicity through public meetings, addresses, conferences, rallies and speeches. As a result we have today government by emotion rather than government by public opinion."

Dean Ackerman believes that the present course of the administration is a very bad one, and that it is no effective substitute for free and complete publication of news and editorial opinion, and that it is unfavorable to the government. The press must retain its position as the interpreter as well as the reporter of public opinion.

With such a reasoned and moderate statement it seems to me that both the administration and the public must agree. The press is acting according to its very best lights in doing everything in its power to further the success of the NRA. As time goes on, and the matter passes out of its initial stages, there can be no doubt that the press will act, still according to its best lights, in presenting to the administration the point of view of that portion of the public on whom the NRA bears severely, even unfairly, in its present tentative and experimental stage.

Dean Ackerman does not believe that the thing should be said. I, for one, am glad that he said it.

SUBWAY PLAN UP BEFORE BOARD

State Officials Order Public Meeting on August 28

The first public hearing on Mayor Curley's proposal to spend $300,000 for a Huntington avenue subway will be held Monday, August 27, at the State House by the State Emergency Finance Board.

At that time adequate opportunity will be granted to those opposed to and in favor of the project to express their views on the project. The board heads the list of public works construction made by the money for the $23,000,000 program under the National Recovery Act.

The program has already been approved by the city government and Elevated directors. However, it must also be approved by the State Board before being referred to Washington for federal approval. It is expected the federal public works directors for this district will sit at the state board during the session, thus making it a joint hearing.

Deciding to start the hearings August 28 was taken at a meeting of the board last night. It was also announced that the board has authorized the raising of $300,000 to relieve critics and form a fund to be used by the board in the event of a public hearing. The board also stated that it would have filed its public works program. The list involves an estimated $3,721,000 bridge, street, sewerage, hospital and school construction.

MOORE HOUSING PROJECT

Neptune Garden Project Before President for Approval

Only the signature of President Roosevelt remained today for completion of $200,000 in federal loans for a model housing project near World War Memorial Park, East Boston.

The project is the latter in a number given insurance approval at Washington under the emergency public works program that will estimate $200,000 in Massachusetts. The other future new post-offices at Cambridge, Waltham and Hays and a huge parcel post plant here.

But for the Cambridge work were opened a month ago and it is expected the contract will be awarded in a few days.

The East Boston project will be one of the first to be awarded to what might be termed private interests, the work being planned by Neptune Gardens, Inc., most of whom are residents of the city, with 700 residential units will include 170 shops in two and three-story buildings, according to the plan.

William J. McDonald, who planned the improvements in the Park square, some years ago, is associated with the new company with the Boston Post Development Co.

The girl, known as "Bunny," left home at 3:30 p. m. on that day, and was later seen in Baldwin at a girl friend's, who reported that Louise passed her without speaking.

She is described as five feet, three inches tall, weighing about 105 pounds, medium complexion, with light hair and brownish gray eyes.

Her hair is worn in the wind-blown bob style. There is also a noticeable scar under her right eye. When last seen she was dressed in a long dark blue summer coat, with a gray fur collar, a dark mink dress, black and white sport shoes and short white socks. She was hairless.

Her mother believes she may have secured work as a mother's helper or that she is seeking work of this kind.

Entry Blank and Rules on Page 7

Yesterday was the "biggest" day yet, so far as number of entries were concerned in the "Typical New England Boy and Girl Contest," winners in which go to the World's Fair at Chicago as guests of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Postman and messenger boys staggered under the weight of photographs submitted.

There is still time to enter the contest. The competition closes Monday at midnight. Entries received after that time cannot be considered eligible for the awards.

On September 3 the happy boy and girl winners of the first awards will take the parents of each to the Century of Progress Exposition, with every expense paid. And to each will be given $50 in cash for "spending money" at the fair. There are those 12 other cash prizes of $100 each.

Winners will be announced in the Boston Sunday Advertiser of August 27. In the meantime, watch for another half page of pictures in the Boston American next Saturday and a full page in the Boston Sunday Advertiser of next Sunday.

The judges freely confess it is no easy task picking the winners. The contest is open to only three more days in which to enter. Send in your photograph now before it is too late to the Boy and Girl Editor, P. O. Box 1417, Boston.

LIGHT WINDS PREVAIL FOR ANNUAL SANDY BAY REGATTA

VISITING BOATS SWELL FLEET AT ROCKPORT

By E. R. WHITTENESSER
Today was busy day at Rockport, where some 25 yachts were racing in the annual regatta of the Sandy Bay Yacht Club. The local fleet was swelled by visiting boats from the Eastern Point Yacht Club of New Bedford, the Amherst Yacht Club of the Green Point Yacht Club of New Bedford, the Newburyport Yacht Club.

The visitors had very light winds during the morning to wait for them around Cape Ann, but there were signs of better weather when racing began this afternoon at 2:30. One of the club's famous chowders was served to the club members and guests this noon.

JUNIOR RACES POPULAR

Junior races were very popular this thing this year. We have had North Shore junior championships and South Shore championships, and in a week or so are to see junior skippers racing for a national title at Gloucester.

But, mentioning the age of the competitors, the most juvenile sailing event of the summer will be that at Marion on Sunday, when two crew kids will sail in the "Rockport" series.

The Rockport series is a shift, each with a sail which was evolved at Marion a couple of years ago, as boats in which to teach the youngsters to sail.

Less able, but also less expensive than the famous Bristol Beasts of Marblehead, they have served their purpose so well, that similar craft are now in use at Cohasset, Weymouth, Mattapoisett, Dennis and Nahant.

ROOKIE RACES SUNDAY

Sunday's race, to be staged in the one on the Saturday, will be at Marion will attract boats from all these positions. There will be in two classes, seniors being boys and girls between 12 and 15 years of age, and juniors those under 12.

A different sort of junior racing is the junior-adult series now in progress at the Pequot Yacht Club on Long Island Sound.

Crews in these races must be between 18 and 21 years of age, too old to compete for the Sears Cup. The Pequot Yacht Club of Marblehead has sent the only entry from this section, consisting of Frank B. Deland, Jr., Robert S. Weeks, Jr., and W. Gould Jones.

Tomorrow's sailing events range from outdoor series to the sailing event for the Kings Cup at Newport. The little series will churn up the fresh waters of Raritan Bay, alerting honors with the swimmers at the Maine Regatta.

Bob Rose of Hingham and Marshall Zidore are among the local drivers who will compete down east. A rival outboard attraction is the New Jersey State Outboard championship card to be run on Lake Hopewick.

The Kings Cup, for which Nantux and Westmore are principal contenders, was originally offered by the late Edward VII. Sailed over the historic course off Breston's Reef Lighthouse, just outside of Newport, it is the climax of the New York Yacht Club's annual regatta.

Educators declare they can, by asking a single test question discover whether or not a person is a sub-normal.

We would like to try a similar experiment with our readers. Kindly supply an answer to the following question:

"A manufacturer increases his prices from 50 to 400 per cent. Do any employees of this manufacturer receive equal increases in pay?"

All those who failed to answer "No" had best consult a physician, and try ice water applications along the spinal column.

U. S. Police Efficiency

Right Way to Subdue Crime

This crime-ridden country regards with astonishment and admiration the brilliant exploit of Federal operatives, aided by police of three cities, in running down and capturing the gangster responsible for the $300,000 Urschel kidnaping in Oklahoma and the brutal Kansas City massacre of five men last June.

Climaxing the achievement, three hundred Federal, State and local officers, guided by air airplanes, waylaid and waged a machine-gun battle late yesterday afternoon in the outskirts of Chicago against still another group of suspects.

Harvey J. Bailey, ringleader of the Urschel kidnaping outfit, appears to be as ruthless, daring and resourceful an outlaw as this generation has known.

A bank robber, leader of a sensational prison break, field marshal of the machine-gun brigade in the bloody Kansas City affair, evidently mainly responsible for the crafty and successful abduction of the oil millionaire Urschel; friend of Fred Burke, another alleged "master-mind" in crime; having accomplices in several States at one time, engaging in bootlegging, holdups or whatever else—such is the police portrait of this dangerous man.

His very capture was in keeping with his underworld repute. Bailey lay asleep in a secluded rural hideout, with deadly weapons in reach on all sides, when the authorities broke in upon his slumber and awakened him with the prod of a "bull dog."

The fact that, under these circumstances, he yielded calmly detracts nothing from the personal perils that his captors dared. Rather it is a tribute to the high-grade detective skill that the Federal men exhibited in locating and seizing simultaneously, with evidences of guilt upon them, not only Bailey in his Texas lair, but the ex-convict Albert L. Bates in Denver and four other suspects in St. Paul.

The police characters of the men implicated, the nature of the crimes under scrutiny, and the dramatic completeness of the law officers' coup ought to be the final victorious argument in favor of an American "Scotland Yard," as advocated by the Hearst newspapers and by many eminent penologists.

Only a few hours before the round-up of the Bailey gang, Warden Lawton of Sing Sing Prison was telling Senator Cope-land's committee on racketeering, at its New York hearing:

"Racketeers are affiliated with politicians, there is no doubt of it. . . . In fact some political organizations are racketeering organizations. That is one of the facts. . . . Racketeering could be stopped in sixty days."

Former Police Commissioner Mulrooney was saying at the same sessions:

"I believe the machine-gun has no place in organized society except for the police and military forces. . . . There is no hope for control of firearms unless it is Federal control."

Between racketeering as such—extortion from industries by threat and violence, bootlegging and crimes like kidnaping, the public has sensed the close alliance.

One illicit or murderous activity meets and merges with the other.

Local police much too frequently protects the racketeers—and even the violent criminal.

State and local police, confined within geographical boundary lines, are too often halted in their pursuit of law-breakers.

But in solving the Urschel case the Federal cloutings ranged from Canada to Mexico. Their agencies in one State helped those in another. When local authority was needed, the Federal men called it in.

That, obviously, is the way to proceed against the thing that crime has come to be in America.

An American "Scotland Yard," developed out of existing and highly capable law-enforcing organizations, is one-half the answer to organized crime in all its forms.

The rest of the answer lies with prosecutors and the courts.

The Forest Army

The men in the forest army gained five and a quarter pounds on the average in their first month of service. Open air, substantial meals, regular hours and enough of military discipline to keep them on their good behavior—these account for their physical improvement.

Nor let it be forgotten that these men were relieved from the hunger and nervous uncertainty that had been their lot as they walked the streets in search of employment. They can, in all truth, thank their country that has been pretty decent to them and expects something worthwhile from them in return.

Sailor Heritage

An uncle, long time dead and gone,
Would often say to me:
"My boy, as long as you live on
You'll dream about the sea.
And ships with masts—and many ropes,
When'er they cross your view,
Will always roar long-buried hopes.
There's sailor blood in you!"
I do not know the name of him
In our ancestral line
Who sometime back in ages dim
Went sailing o'er the brine;
But part of him must dwell in me.
Still pulsing, hale and strong,
For when a ship puts out to sea
I ache to go along.
The land has kept me for its own
For all these many years,
For sailor's work too old I've grown,
Still, when a ship appears,
I stand and watch it as it moves
On lake or far-fung sea.
And feel that yearning strange, which proves
The sailor blood in me.

Rich Man, Poor Man

The Federal Government is taking an active and effective part in the crusade against racketeering.

But what about the Income Tax Racket, for which the Government itself is to blame?

The rich man, whose taxes should be proportionate to his wealth, may pay no income tax at all.

He may evade the tax by reporting hypothetical "losses" in the stock market greater than his taxable income.

Or he may put his money into tax-exempt securities, and evade the income tax in that way.

But the wage-earner and the salaried man have to pay. Out of every hard-won dollar, above mere pittance, that comes out of the pay window the income tax extorts its unjust portion.

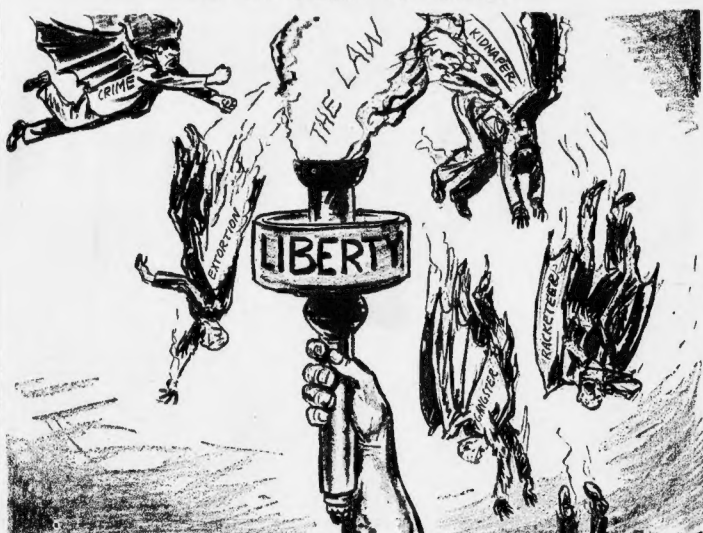

This is a racket that can be easily stopped. Congress, in January, can abolish the iniquitous income tax, and enact a General Manufacturers' Sales Tax which will give the Government more revenue than the income tax provides, and will be fair to every citizen.

Politics Menace Safety of Air Routes

By James T. Williams, Jr.

Unless President Roosevelt intervenes there is grave danger that the new and incompetent administration of the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce may soon cost the lives of an unknown number of American pilots and their passengers.

Instead of striving to maintain the highest efficiency in the present system of airways which the Federal Government has established, the new political branch of the aeronautics branch are seriously considering drastic curtailment of those aids to air navigation which have made American air transport the admiration of the world.

This penny-wise and pound-foolish proposal, if adopted, in the judgment of the pilots who fly the mail and passengers, will quickly check the growth of air transport in this country and unnecessarily endanger the lives of pilots and passengers alike.

PROTEST BEING MADE. Already, protests are being made in four in which Congress has cheerfully made appropriations year after year, and which the air services of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Post Office Department insist should be continued.

William F. McCracken, Jr., formerly assistant Secretary of the Committee for Aeronautics, and Paul Henderson, former second assistant, postmaster-general in charge of airmail, speaking for the air transport industry, have urged their protest to the Senate.

Mr. McCracken, Jr., said that the American who flies is not only a passenger, but a taxpayer.

Mr. Henderson has called the attention of the Department of Commerce to the fact that a Western airplane pilot, who is still missing, is probably the victim of the Federal economy in turning out the lights on the Federal airway between Los Angeles and Portland while he was flying.

OTHER SAVED 1932. The aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce was organized under the air commerce act approved May 20, 1926. It performs the functions entrusted to the Secretary of Commerce by that act.

These functions include: The establishment and maintenance of civil airways, and their equipment with intermediate landing fields, beacon lights, signal and radio apparatus and other aids to air navigation.

Other functions of the aeronautics branch are the establishment of a suitable weather service on airways; the enforcement of air traffic rules; the inspection and licensing of aircraft; the examining and licensing of airmen; the rating of airports and the encouragement of municipalities and other organizations to establish additional airports and landing fields.

The administration of the aeronautics branch has earned in recent years the overwhelming approval of Congress, the navy, postal, and commercial pilots. Its personnel was carefully selected and was, until recently, conspicuously free from political influences.

Under a recent reorganization, many changes have been made in the personnel and policies of this important Federal service, and the new administration has made changes now appears in the form of a so-called economy program, which will result in the loss of many of the most experienced and efficient personnel.

When Congress again convenes there will doubtless be a thorough investigation of recent changes in the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce, but many a passenger and many a pilot will be killed between now and next January unless a halt is called upon the Federal economy in this Federal agency.

put a price of $100,000 on his head. We hear stories that in New Paris mansion he dines from caviar gold plates with ivory inlaid knives and forks and a room. A New York newspaper announces that his chief pleasure is to spend 15 evenings in his kitchen, cooking rare foods brought by airplanes from distant lands.

One story printed about him is that he has written 58 volumes of his autobiography and has given orders that every page, and word is to be destroyed after his death.

He has never told his own story or given an interview. This legendary man, now aged 60, is said to have hundreds of millions of dollars worth of munitions to the countries of Europe and whose fortune is estimated at $1.5 billion.

Lord Beaverbrook, English editor, has said of this almost mythical character: "The destinies of nations are at stake. The movement of armies and the speed of the war of the world is in the hands of this mysterious figure."

He has no man actually known whether he is the devil that some have painted or the angel in disguise that his defenders have claimed him to be. It is known, though, that romance entered his life when he was over 30, and his amazing love story.

When he was still a young man, traveling for a great munitions house, Sir Basil met on a train in Spain an exquisitely beautiful girl with whom he fell instantly and desperately in love. But the Spanish beauty, as he quickly found out, was pledged to another man, a scion of royalty, none other than the Duke of Marchena and a cousin of the King of Spain.

Alfonso XIII. For his lady, who, incoherently bound by the customs of her country, shortly afterward was married to the duke, Sir Basil waited for nothing for thirty years, until Marchena died.

And then, in 1924, he and the Duke's daughter, both white-haired by then but still very much in love, were married. The Duchess was a grandmotherly seventy-five years old, and Sir Basil, brightly in their hearts, and for two years that destiny gave him the life he had dreamed of.

But Sir Basil's many mansions. And the Duke of Marchena, passed from the scene and Sir Basil was left alone.

Only recently, this romance of his life is about that it is credibly known about Europe's man of mystery. And the Duke of Marchena, passed from the scene and Sir Basil was left alone.

But Sir Basil Zaharoff, an elderly man, is said to be a millionaire. He is said to be a millionaire. He is said to be a millionaire.

He is said to be a millionaire. He is said to be a millionaire. He is said to be a millionaire.
